

United to Fight It: Preventing Substance Abuse

presents the film...

Viewer discretion advised. The film contains strong language and graphic images.

The film is intended to educate community members, parents and middle school to college age youth about the dangers of addiction and how to avoid them. This event is open to the entire community and surrounding areas. It is appropriate for students in grades 7-12.

Followed by an interactive panel discussion with representatives from the U.S. Attorney's Office, Rensselaer County District Attorney's Office, local law enforcement agencies, local first responders, addiction and recovery specialists, family members of those affected and individuals in recovery. A facilitator from the U.S. Attorney's Office will guide the discussion through the progression of addiction as well as the community's response and resources for it.
